AYIA NAPA - CYPRUS

Touch the Sea...

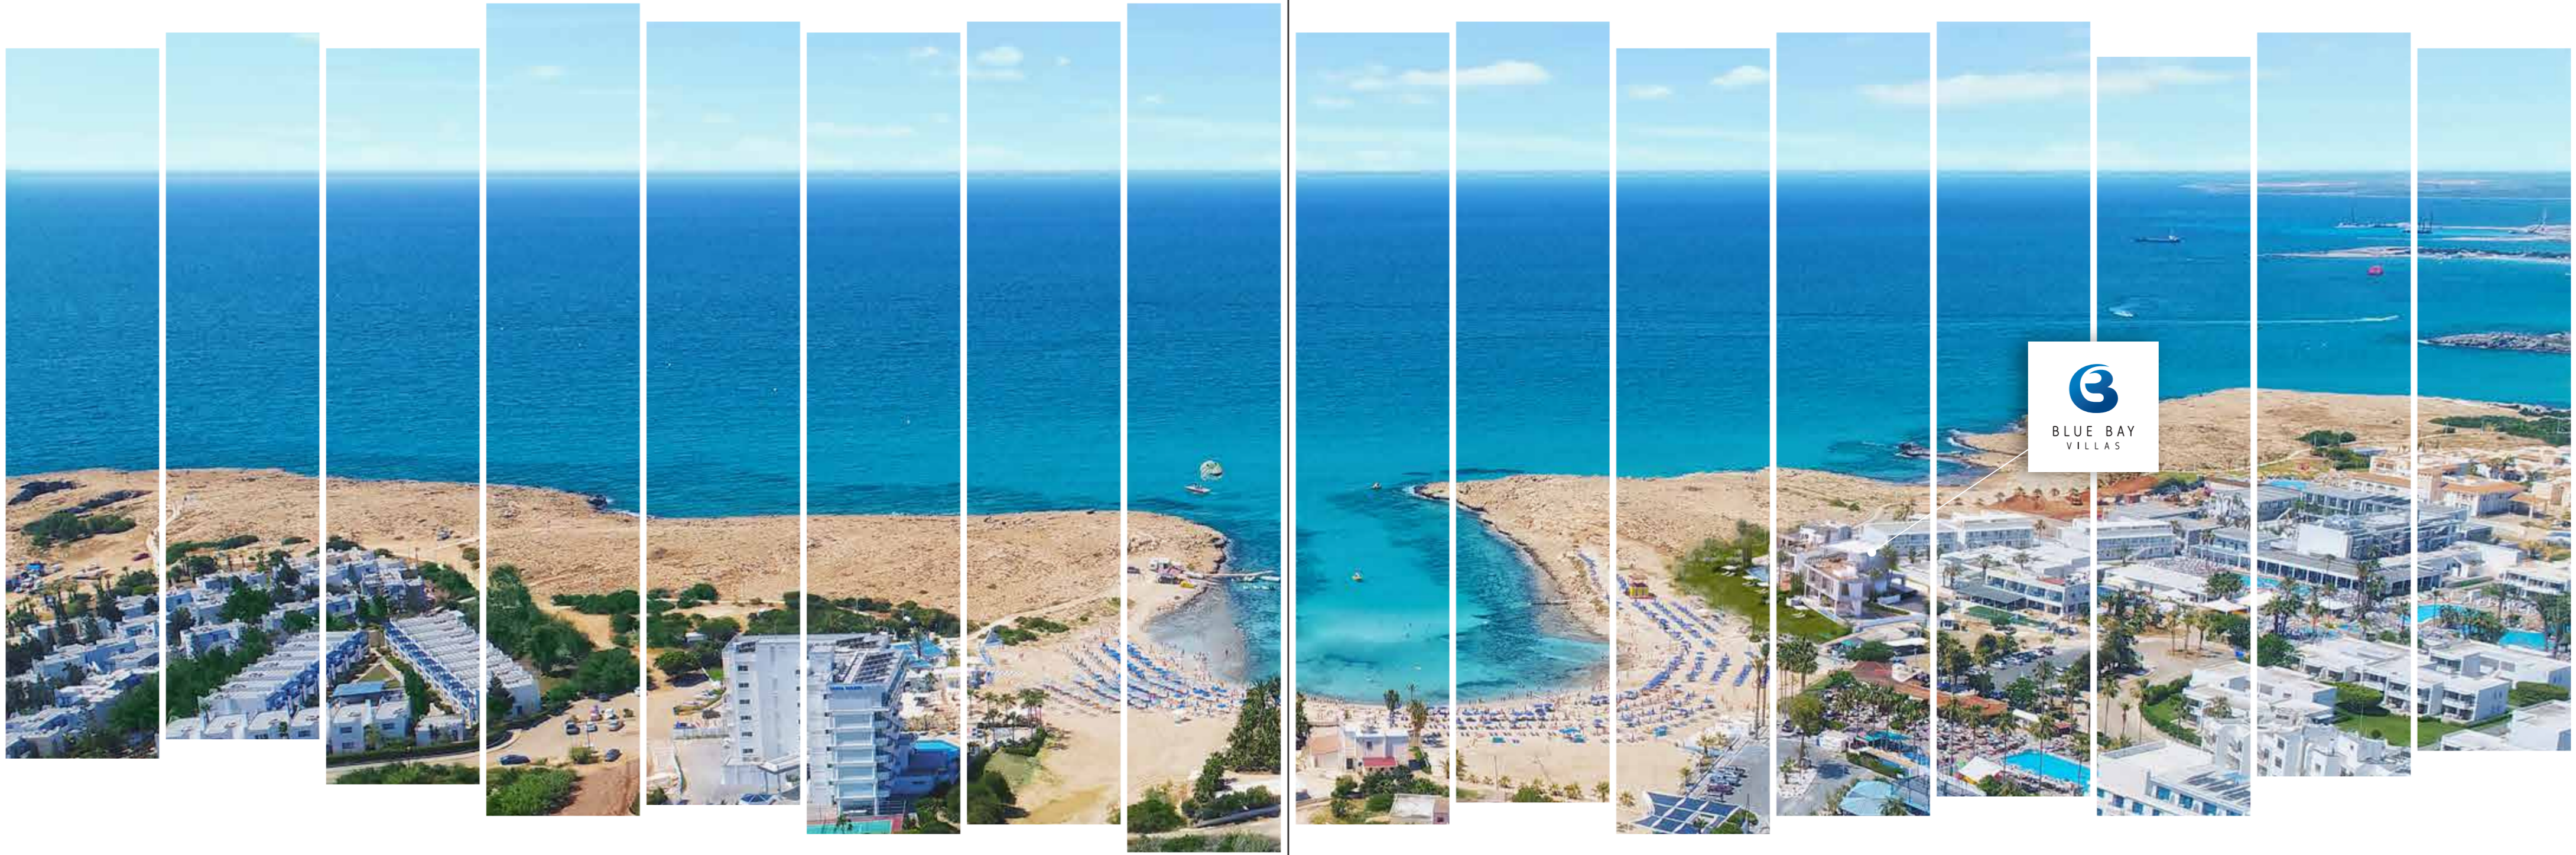

It is common knowledge that the value of any real estate is based on three factors: location, location, location.

While the popularity of different areas may shift from one generation to the next, properties that are close to the sea are and will always be desirable – the closer the better.

Blue Bay Villas, a new project that is just taking shape, is not only close to the sea, but directly on one of the most beautiful sandy beaches on the southern coast of Cyprus.

Add to that the aesthetic, Mediterranean style architectural design and quality finish of these two exclusive villas, and it becomes clear why this project ranks as the first among equals.

The Cyprus Appeal

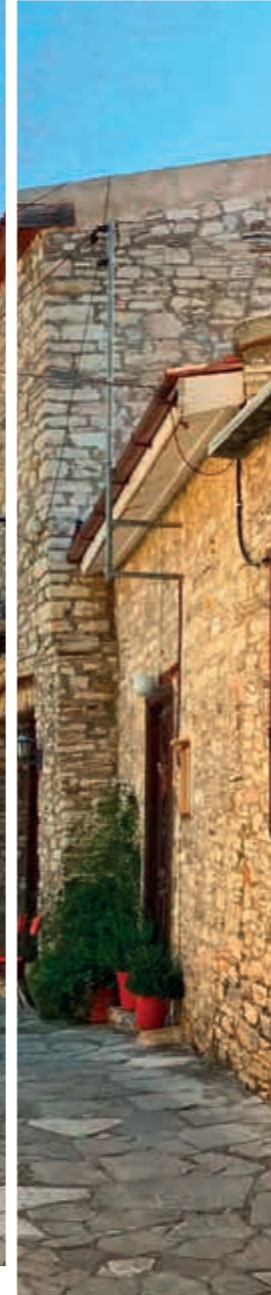

Gone are the days when Cyprus was an unknown island. Within Europe it has long established itself as a popular holiday destination, thanks to its mild and sunny Mediterranean climate, its beautiful beaches and its accessibility from all major airports. But now, the island's reputation has extended across continents, as visitors from around the world discover its many other advantages: the diversity of its landscape, its historical wealth, the hospitality of its people and above all its safe and family-friendly environment.

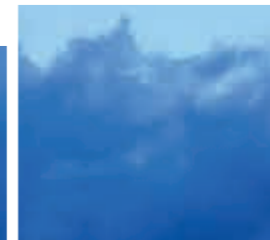

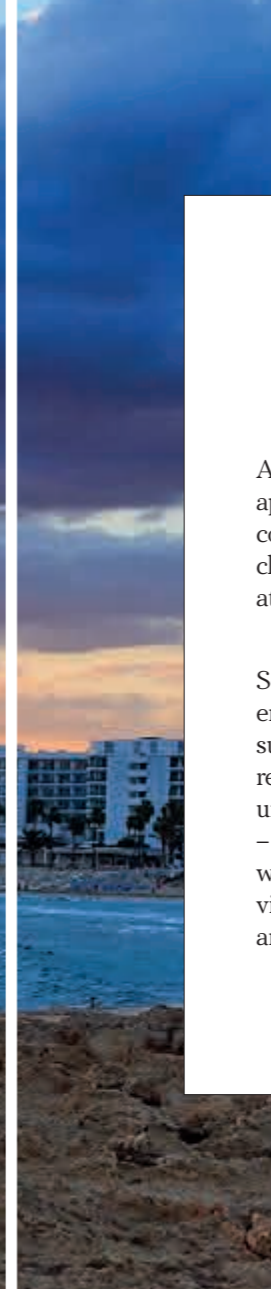

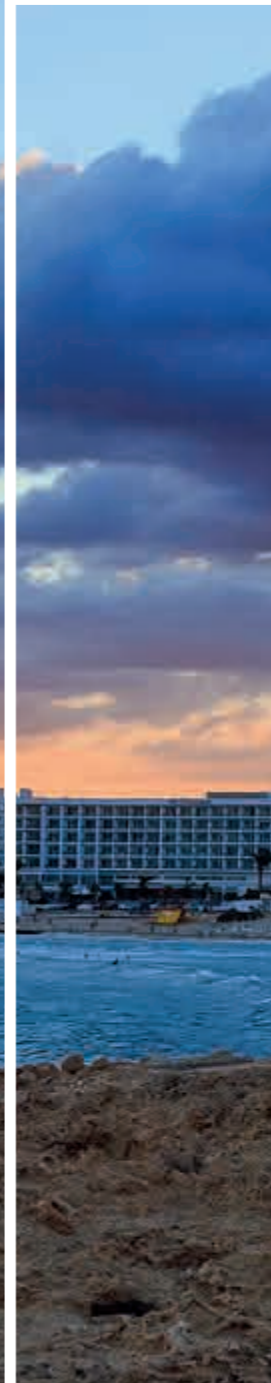

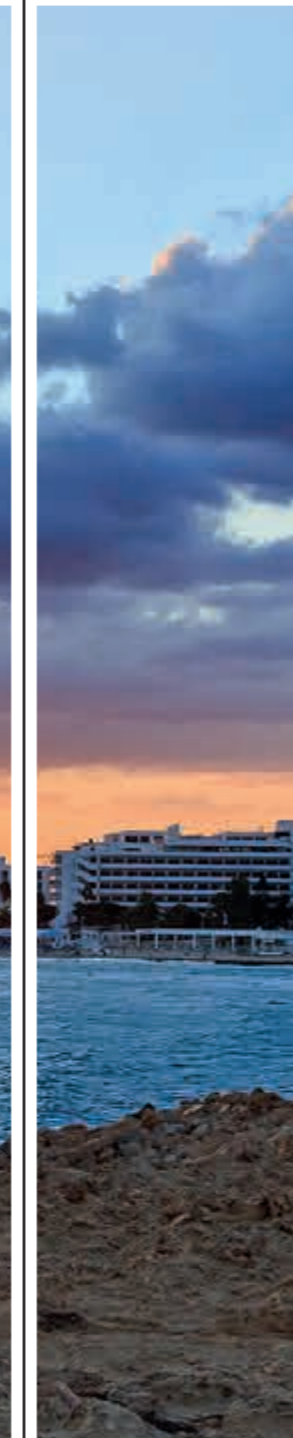

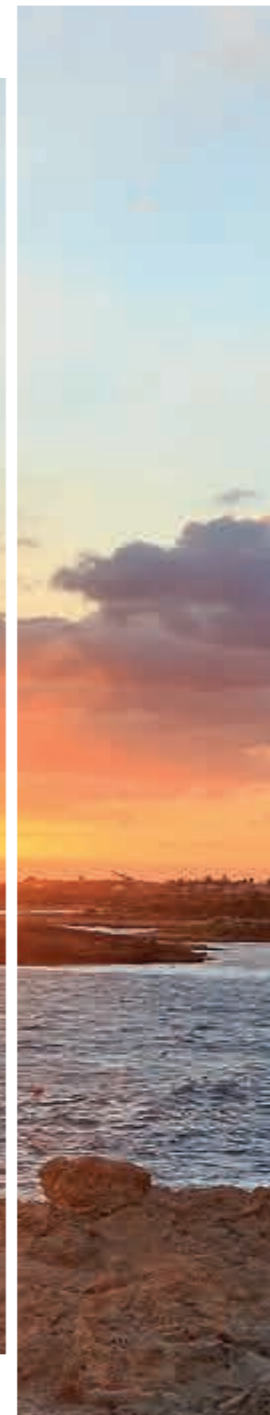

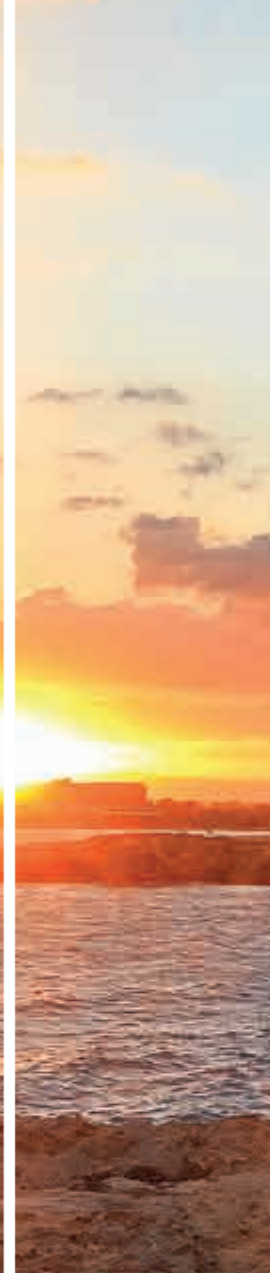

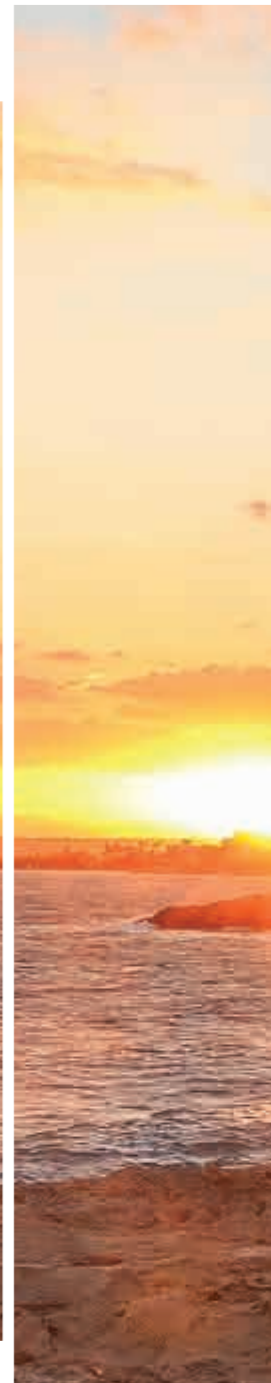

But that's not all. Since Cyprus became a member of the European Union in 2004, its role in history as a bridge between East and West has been revived and reinforced. Today, as the southernmost border of the EU and a country where English is widely spoken, it plays an important role in international relations and global business and trade.

Ayia Napa Magic

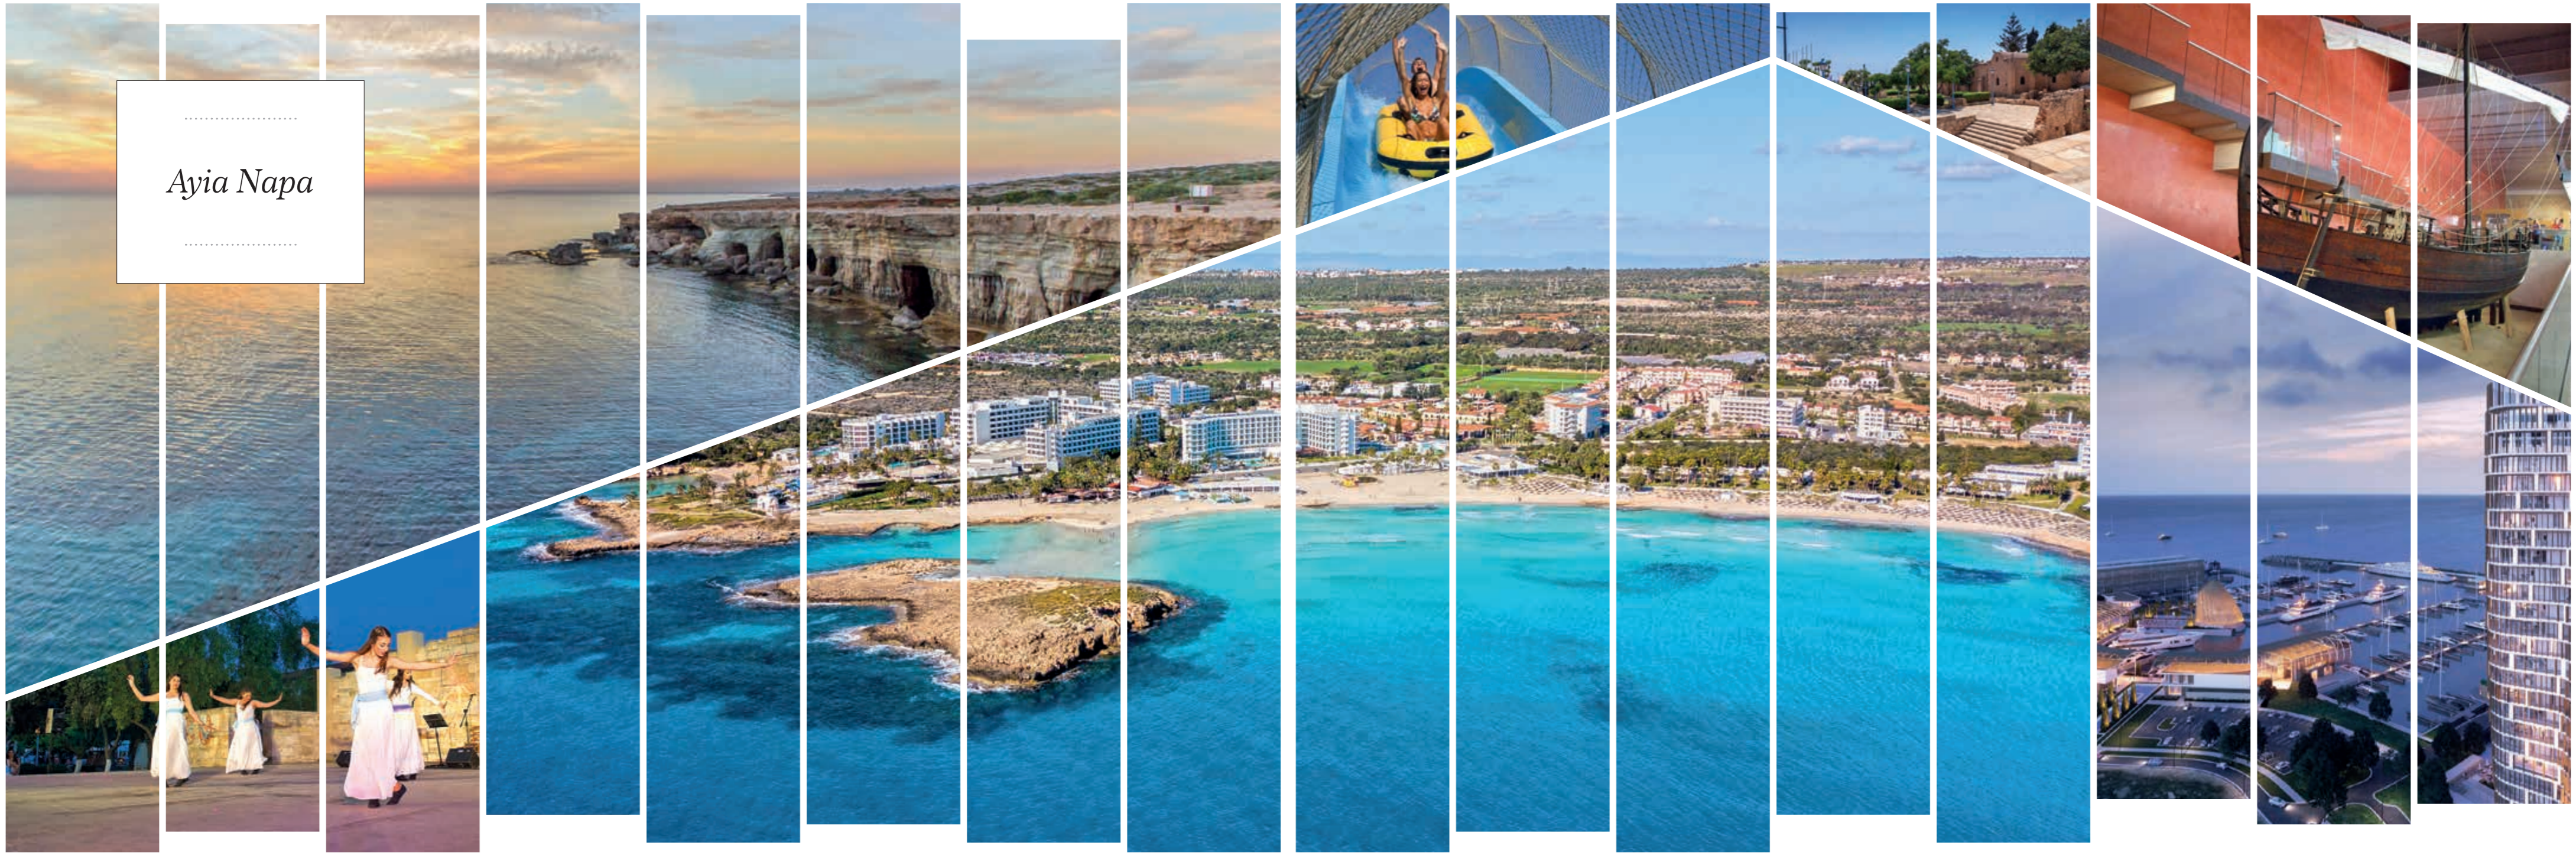

Anyone looking for a property that combines all the appealing aspects of Cyprus with the benefits and value of a coastal location along sugary sands that melt into safe and clear waters will be drawn to Ayia Napa. This resort that attracts holidaymakers from near and far is evolving slowly but surely.

Serious infrastructure developments are upgrading and enhancing the image of this town that was once primarily a summer resort. From extended coastal pathways and recreational facilities, to the new marina that is already well under way, significant investments – both public and private – are indirectly helping this town extend the tourist season way beyond the summer months. Every year, long-staying visitors in particular take advantage of the mild winters and amazing weather of spring and autumn, as Ayia Napa comes ever closer to being a year-round lifestyle destination.

Investors' Choice

Buying a home involves a serious investment. So naturally, buyers are in search of a property that will at least maintain its value, and ideally appreciate over time.

Blue Bay Villas qualify as a promising investment for several reasons. Apart from this specific project's features – exceptional location, size, design and quality – Ayia Napa as a whole has caught the eye of international investors who have recognized its potential.

While Cyprus is experiencing an unprecedented influx of tourists and the number of arrivals is setting new records every year, Ayia Napa and its surroundings are witnessing the highest rise in popularity.

This trend, together with the limited availability of coastal properties for sale and the various infrastructure projects that are in the pipeline, signals a bright future for Ayia Napa... and Blue Bay Villas offer you an opportunity to claim your share of it.
